Vivienne: Discussion on having a one block activity block instead of a two block activity block, we would have to cancel trick or treating at the office building due to weather concerns, so instead we would trick or treat in the building!

There would be a strip of paper that says "This is a Candy Class" and students can obtain candy from those classrooms which are participating.

Candy can be dropped off at the Main Office tomorrow, please bring in your own candy if you are interested as well.

1st Block: Costume Contest

2nd Block: Various activities like a ring toss and apple bobbing

Seniors will be hosting a haunted hallway during both blocks. Motion patrons see that there would be no reason to cut it down to one block, as there is plenty of activities to participate in.

Winners of these contests will get to throw cream pies at a few teachers!

Bake Sale in the Atrium.

Dan: From a crowd and noise control perspective, might be best not to be in the Atrium?

Deidre: Areas outside the elevators might be viable spaces for activities, the hallways may be a little too tight.

Kate: Sign on the door means that you are giving out candy, so people are not bothered if taking tests and conducting business in classrooms.

Teacher are asked to volunteer their faces for pie throwing

Dave: Motion to call to question, though not raising hand for pie throwing.
